BACKGROUND

I was born in Bujumbura, the capital city of the Republic of Burundi, on 2nd March 2002. I am currently living in Pretoria, Republic of South Africa.

When I was 7 years old, I discovered football. First, I was considering soccer as a simple recreational game until the day I saw on TV the Brazilian soccer player Ronaldinho. He was doing impossible moves such as giving long passes without looking at the ball, as if the ball was a magnet to his feet. I was amazed by the way he played. From that day, I wanted to become like him, and I started to consider football as a life challenge and way to grow.

At 9 years old, I had to leave my home country because my stepmother got a new contract with UNICEF Burkina Faso. We lived there for 4 years and I have been given the opportunity to train, learn and improve my abilities in playing football at Académie “Salitas Football Club”.

After that, we went to Moldova, in Eastern Europe, where I played for the Dacia Football Club of Chisinau capital city. There, I played against Transnistria Sheriff Football Club but also learned to practice football during winter time as opposed to my previous experiences.

In 2018 while in Cameroon, I played several football matches (Rain Forest International School, U23 Cameroon National Team, Academic School of Excellence, U18 Cameroon National Team, Amity International School...).

Now at 22 years old, I am looking for ways to stretch my physical abilities to their full potential, more specifically in football. I am willing to professionally invest myself in football practice, as a team member.

My experiences in different countries enriched me with an ability to adapt, flexibility and drive for result skills as well as with a mind open to world citizenship.

As a player, I would describe myself as a possession football player, my best qualities are long, short passes and I have the ability of taking on players. I rely most of my football on movement into open space and try to play simple in one or two touches.
